Mafeking

1. Where was the local airfield in 1910?
2. How did the sinking of the Titanic affect Huntingdon?
3. Why was a local First World War bomb victim eaten?
4. What's the connection between the statue in the Market Square and Scott of the Antarctic?
5. How much did a new Ford cost in 1936?
6. When two evacuees tried to cycle home from Huntingdon to East London, how far did they get?
7. What could you buy on the black market for two rabbits and an egg in 1944?
8. What's the present name of the Huntingdon Literary and Scientific Institute?
9. Where's Constipation Street, Huntingdon?
10. How much did two black market tickets for the 1966 World Cup final cost?

Find out the answers - and enjoy the plays, songs and poems - by coming to 'From Mafeking to the Millennium: Huntingdon and the world in the 20th century'.

Tell your friends, relations and colleagues about this ... better still, drag them along with you.

Members sharing their talents

Fiddler on the Roof - SIMADS put on a very successful production of 'Fiddler on the Roof' in October, with five performances, all sold out or close to it.

Phil Cox was an excellent Tevye (the role that Topol made famous), and several Drama Club members also took part - including Michael Black as the Rabbi.

(well ... if you can't get them locally where better to capture quality than from the Huntingdon Drama Club?)

Carol Wadey (second from the right) causing a shock and a stir (well, she's done it before).

Michael Black (second from the left), in one of his many disguises.

Our congratulations to SIMADS on doing so well, and we look forward to seeing lots of their members at 'From Mafeking to the Millennium'.

The new Licensing Laws!

Many thanks for all who offered. We now have cover for the Autumn production – hooray!

Other events

The Whittlesea Straw Bear Festival.

Ronald is planning a visit to the Bear Festival (yes, that's right - a festival about Bears, or straw ones at least) on either the 14th or 15th January 2006.

If you are interested please contact Ronald on .

And finally ... workshop in November

We'll be having a workshop on 21 or 23 Nov. We'll notify you of the date(s) once we have confirmed them.
